

24/06/20

WRITING FOR PUBLICATION

Publication, as a matter of fact, it is required of all academics as part of their promotion requirement to publish academic papers. Thus it is common to hear in university environment and some other tertiary institutions the parlance: Publish or perish. In other words, academics or write expected to unite well researched articles that ~~can~~ be used to upgrade them or fail to write and remain in one position and be forgotten.

However, for our purpose here, feature stories or well written essays on a variety of for publication in newspapers, magazines, journals, books, etc for a wider audience.

The society we live in is replete with topical and current issues that can of prevoke the reaction of positive thinkers and writers. In a society where for instance, so many things are going wrong or where people who consider it as a point of duty to correct these anomalies or enlighten the public through their articles. Thus management of newspapers, magazines, etc. consider it fit to publish well written articles and features of the public.

✓ THE ELEMENTS OF WRITING FOR PUBLICATION

Writing for publication is a kind of communication which normally involves a process. In other words, it is made up of certain elements. One, there is a writer (encoder) who has something to say. Two, there is a message or text (subject matter / topic) to be conveyed to the public. Three, there is the reader (decoder/ audience) who is the consummator of the message. Finally, opinions or rejoinder from the readers (feedback).

THE WRITER: The writer is the source, originator or initiator of the message. Since the primary purpose for writing is to say something, the writer must be certain about message he has for the public. The writer ought to know how he should communicate his message, paying attention to his choice of words, style etc. he also need specifically what he intends to achieve. For instance, it could be to inform, to condemn, to correct etc.

Articles can be written by anybody. However, certain factors can inform the Subjects suitability of an article. For instance, the writer needs to be conversant with the issues he has to discuss; he needs to be widely read and current; he needs to have a considerable level of education etc.

THE SUBJECT MATTER: This is the message, information or idea that is conveyed in the form of an essay to the public. What we write on publication are essays on topical and current issues which are of immediate or future benefit to the members of the society. Thus such essays could be on political, social, economic, educational, scientific, cultural, religious issues and so on. For instance, writers could write on such topical issues as: campuses: The way out, second terms syndrome in Nigerian politics, Aids: The dreaded killer of our time, Religious: The effect of Boko Haram in Nigeria etc,

Whatsoever, the subject matter may be, the reasons for writing articles for publication are either to inform, entertain, or educate people. An article therefore should be properly researched and clearly written on an identified subject matter and ensure that the purpose for writing it is achieved.

THE AUDIENCE: This is the third elements in writing for publication. The reason for writing is to convey a message to a people. Without audience therefore, there can be no writing, let alone publishing it. The audience thus determines what to write out, how to write and the purpose for writing it.

In writing or publication, the audience is the general public with varying interests, educational, background, social- political set up, cultural affliction etc. so it is the duty of the writer to direct his/ her article to a specific audience.

FEEDBACK: This is the final stage of the publication process. Here, the audience has fully understood the communicated message and the audience take action and send a reply (feedback) to the writer. Understanding is said to a taken place when similar meanings are attached by the writer and the audience feedback therefore is the reaction or response which the audience gives to the writer. Feedback could be positive or negative where the audience correctly or wrongly interpret the message of the write.

TECHNIQUES FOR WRITING FOR PUBLICATION:

- Choosing the topic
- Introducing the article
- Consideration of the audience
- Choosing the style of writing
- Developing the message
- Concluding the article (conclusion)

OR:

- Choosing the topic
- Planning stage
- The outline stage
- The audience
- Developing stage
- The writing
- The editing stage

CHOOSING THE TOPIC: A student must first and foremost make sure he chooses a topic that he is familiar with, for instance, if a student is given two topics to choose from

- a. How i spent my last holidays and
- b. My experience in a train journey

A student who has never entered a train therefore, will find it difficult writing on his experience in train. Therefore, it would be best for this student to choose the topic on how he spent his last holidays.

PLANNING STAGE: A student at this stage is expected to put together his thoughts on how to write an article for publication (essay). This may involve gathering relevant materials, and some skimming reading to obtain more information.

OUTLINE STAGE: The student at this stage tries to put down in a chronological order points he has thought of that would be relevant to the topic.

THE WRITING STAGE: The student develops the points given at the outline stage. This he does systematically without forgetting the types of article he is writing.

EDITING STAGE: Here the student should read through the articles or write up again and edit it for:

- a. Mechanical accuracy: this should entail that punctuations are correctly used including the proper use of capital letters.
- b. Grammatical error: Emphases must be laid on proper use of grammar. To achieve this, student must give thoughtful attention to sentence constructions.
- c. Correct paragraphing: Each paragraph must deal with only one idea and every paragraph in the sentence should have a distinct bearing upon the ✓ sentence that precedes and follows it. As soon as the idea dealt with is exhausted, you can begin another paragraph. Students must bear in mind that the essential qualities of a good paragraph are unity and coherence.

d. Content: Ensure that content of the body of the articles/ essay is relevant to the topic.

1. Topic: The writer must choose a topic that he / she is familiar with.
2. Good Grammatical Construction Should Be Used: This means that the writer needs good grammatical structures, paragraphing, correct spellings and punctuations.
3. The Write- UP MUST NOT BE AMBIGUOUS: It must state what it desires to state.
4. To give a good impression to reader, the write-up must be legible.
- ✓ 5. The article / story must be logically mastered in a planned sequence.
6. Finally, it must be an interesting write-up

QUESTION:

1. What is publication?
2. What are the elements involved in writing for a publication?
3. List the techniques of writing for publication and explain them
4. What are the areas to be considered in editing an article for publication?

CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondence can be defined as communication by letter. While a letter can be defined as a message that is written and sent to somebody.

✓ Letters are categorized into three:-

Formal letter

Informal letter

Semi-formal letter

FORMAL LETTER

A formal letter also known as official or business letter is that letter written to someone in official position. The person writing this letter may be an individual outside the organization, or an official in one organization writing to another official in another organization. A formal letter can be written from officer to another writing the same organization.

Generally, a formal letter conveys a sense of formality with the content of the letter appropriately articulated and presented following the conversational features of a formal letter.

FORMAT OF A FORMAL LETTERS

All official letters can be presented in two formats according to its layout. The first format is a letter from an individual to an organization.

Example:

51 Mubi street
Yola
24th May, 2017

Executive officer,

Yazaram Ventures

P.O. BOX 05

Mubi.

APPLICATION FOR THE POST OF A SENIOR ACCOUNTANT

Yours faithfully
Sign
Goodluck Sani.

The second format is a letter from an organization to either an individual or another organization. In this format the organization has a letter headed paper containing the name of the organization, organization logo (this is optional) position for date, our reference, your reference and sometimes the name of director of the organization. Example:

RAIR- FORMATNIGERIA LIMITED

PMB 69

KANO

DATE-----

Our ref:

Your ref:

The management Director,

ABC Bank

P. O. Box 12,

Kano.

Sir,

REQUEST FOR LOAN FACILITIES

Yours faithfully

Alhaji B. Naira

Chief executive officer

CONVENTIONAL FEATURES OF A FORMAL LETTER

The conventional features of a formal letter are:

- The writer's address
- The date
- The recipient's address
- The salutation
- The title
- The body
- The complementary close
- Name and signature

THE WRITER'S ADDRESS

The writer's address is the address of the person writing the letter. The address is usually written two ways:

The block form and

The indented forms

The address could be in close punctuation or open punctuation (non-punctuation)

THE DATES

All letters must carry date which is written immediately after under the address in any of the forms given below.

1. 12, May 2017
2. 12th May, 2017
3. May 12, 2017
4. 12/5/ 2017
5. 12/May/2017
6. 12. 05.2017

- The format in 1-3 above are mostly preferred and used in formal letter. Avoid the use of from 4-6 above. It is necessary to date all letters for two reasons:
- To ensure ease of reference.
 - To enable the recipient know where letter was written.

SALUTATION

Example:

- Sir
- Dear sir
- Dear Madam.

THE TITLE

Understand that if the title is written (typed) in bold capital letters, it should not be underlined. But if it is written or typed in small letters, it can be underlined.

Example:

- APPLICATION FOR THE POST OF A SENIOR ACCOUNTANT
- Application for the post of a senior accountant

TYPES OF OFFICIAL LETTERS

The most common type of official letters includes:

- Letter of application
- Letter of appreciation
- Letter of appointment
- Letter of promotion
- Letter of termination
- Letter of condolence
- Letter of recommendation
- Letter of congratulations

- Letter to the editor
- Letter of query, enquiry, order, remittance, permission etc.

LETTER OF APPLICATION

A letter of application is an official letter usually written by someone seeking for a job in an organization. Such a letter should conform to all basic features of official letter writing. There are two or ways of writing a letter of application.

Essay form and curriculum vitae (which is represented in a simple format of 3-4 paragraphs).

A good letter of application must contain the following:

- State briefly how the knowledge of the vacancy was obtained (advertised or verbal information).
- The position being applied for
- Personal data
- Institution attended/ educational qualification
- Working experience (if any)
- Special qualities you have that can bring to bear on the job you are applying for
- Information on your salary (where necessary)
- Important personalities that can attest to your credentials
- Photocopies of your credentials.

APPLICATION FOR EMPLOYMENT USING CV.

1. Personal data:-

- Data and place of birth
- Sex
- State of origin
- Nationality
- 2. Academic institution attended
- 3. Educational qualification
- 4. Working experience
- 5. Publications – if the post is academic
- 6. Leadership position
- 7. Hobby
- 8. Referees usually three.

Example:

25 Yarazam ventures

Mubi

Adadmawa state

12th May, 2017.

The Registrar

The federal polytechnic

Mubi.

Dear Sir,

Application for the post of a principal lecturer

I am writing in response to your advertisement in the weekly scope Newspaper of 1st May, 2017, for the post of a principal lecturer.

Kindly find attached my detailed curriculum vitae.

I hope you will invite me to an interview during which I can give more information about myself. I have enclosed photocopies of my credentials.

Yours faithfully

Sign

Goodluck Sani

~~LETTER~~ OF QUERY

According to Otagburuagu(1995), a query is an official weapon for correction, maintenance of discipline and standards in an office. A query can therefore only be issued by a superior officer to a subordinate.

When to commit an offence (actions and behavior against the norms and rules of the organization, a superior officer can issue the subordinate staff a query to explain his action as to why he should not be disciplined.

FEATURES OF LETTER OF QUERY

- ~~The~~ writer's address
- The recipient's address
- Subject of the query. It can be titled "query" or spell out the query. Example "sleeping on duty."
- The body of the query
- Name, status of the writer and signature
- Note : No salutation and complimentary close.

QUERY- ABSENCE FROM DUTY

51 Yarazam ventures

Mubi

Adadmawa state

12th May, 2017.

Our ref.

~~Mr~~ David Mohammed

Kano street

Mubi.

QUERY- ABSENCE FROM DUTY

We noticed that you have absented yourself from duty without permission from 2nd May 2017 contrary to our condition of service. We consider your action as gross offence (misconduct).

You are therefore, requested to explain why disciplinary action should not be taken against you.

Your response should reach the undersigned within 24 hours

Signature

Malachi yakeem

For: head/Admin/ Human resources.

REPLY TO A QUERY

A reply to a query has the following features:

- Address and addressee
- Salutation
- Subject
- Body
- Complementary close
- Name- signature and status of the writer

Example Reply to a query:

No 51 Kano street
Mubi
Adamawa state
18th
May, 2017.

Head admin/ Human Resources
51 yazaram Ventures
Adamawa state.

RE: ABSENCE FROM WORK

I refer to your reference dated 12th May, 2017 on the above subject matter. The reason of my absence from duty from 2nd to 6th May 2017 is because I feel sick and was rushed to the hospital at about 7pm on the 1st of May. I regained consciousness at about 7pm on the 1st of May, 2017. I immediately informed the doctor to formally inform my organization of my health condition. Unfortunately the doctor forgot, I was discharged from the hospital on the 9th of May 2017. I am therefore, very sorry for the mix-up. I have accordingly collected a letter from the doctor hereby attached as a confirmation of what i have said. Kindly pardon my absence from duty for my action was not deliberate.

Yours faithfully
sign

Mr David Mohammed.

INVITATIONS:

An invitation is a special type of official communication. It is a spoken or written request to a person to come or to go somewhere.

There are different types of invitation:

- Special invitation
- General invitation

SPECIAL INVITATION:

In a special invitation, an individual is specially invited using invitation cards. While General invitation is when the general public is invited to an occasion.

Examples: SPECIAL INVITATION

The families of late Pa Rilwan Mangu
and

Late Capt. Joseph Bature Lau

Cordially invite

to the marriage ceremony of their children

Evelyn Joseph (karamu)

And

Amibi Lilian Mangu

which will take place on

Date: Sat. 10th may, 2017

Venue: Savannah sugar company Numan

Time: 10:00 am prompt

@ Hall No.2

During the occasion you are to serve as

R.S.V.P

- 084000008

- 990804232

- 151268758

GENERAL INVITATION

LAUNCHING, LAUNCHING, LAUNCHING!!!

The general public is hereby invited to the launching of a book – Beauty of polytechnic, by the Rector of the institution

Venue: AIA Hall

Date: 6th May, 2017.

Time: 10:00am

Guest of honor: Chief Alhaji Martins Gwa Chief Launcher: Alhaji Mai Kudi, Mubi

RSVP

50284098233

38028947812

Come one come all

APPLICATION FOR POST OF ACCOUNT MANAGER

Paragraph I: form a application for precise job indicating where you heard of it

Paragraph II: Age and educational background.

Paragraph III: experience in the job. Other interests which give some idea of your personality and characteristics

Paragraph IV: Reference who are men/women of authority in the community, able to make judgments of your characteristics reliability

Paragraph V: Your availability for interview and contact phone number

THE PRINCIPLES OF BUSINESS LETTER WRITING

These are:

- i- The letter should be arranged in an orderly manner, organizing ideas into appropriate paragraphs.
- ii- Use simple words that can convey your message clearly and directly without ambiguity.
- iii- Choose words that care and be economical. Be as brief as possible without missing the essential parts of your message
- iv- Use appropriate tone, ensure that your tones rhymes with the subject matter and the reader.
- v- Precise – Ensure that you do not write is necessary.
- vi- Ensure accuracy – ensure that all the facts, figures, dates, numbers etc that are supplying are correct.
- vii- Spellings, punctuations, marks, tenses etc are properly fixed and used
- viii- Remember to have one idea only in each paragraph
- vix- Ensure high degree of consistency in your letter; consistency of presentation as well as of expression (example: I, We, them am).

QUESTION:

1. You were offered an appointment as well as manager, write a letter to the general manager of the company using full block forma.
2. Differentiate between formal and informal letter writing
3. Accordingly, write the features of formal and letter writing
4. The federal ministry of Education 'pays a visit to your institution. As the representative, write an appropriate address in the form of a letter, who
5. As the head of state department, write a query to the head of Estate division for fighting on duty.
6. Write a letter of appreciation to your intimate friend in Abuja who could not attend your birthday party but sent a wonderful gift.

LETTERS OF APPRECIATION

A letter of appreciation is written to express gratitude or through or recognition

Audu Michael

Nigerian Social Trust Fund

25 Kano road

Mubi

14th Mmay, 2017

The management Director

Nigerian Social Trust Fund

Mubi

Sir,

LETTERS OF APPRECIATION

With humility, regards and respect, I on behalf of my wife and the entire members of the family of Audu Michael wish to convey our profound gratitude's to you, all staff members and the entire management on the enormous assistance rendered to me financially and spiritually during the heart surgery of my Son, Hon. Inuwa M. Audu in Abuja on 15th Sep. 2010 which was successfully carried out.

Once again, I want to thank the Leadership and management NSITF and pray that God will continue to guide, promote and reward you abundantly for helping the less privileged.

Long live NSITF

FEATURES OF INVITATION

A good invitation should contain the following:

- Name of the person or group of people initiating the invitation
- Name of the person being invited
- The occasion which they are being invited
- The venue, time of the occasion
- The date of the occasion
- The name and the contact address or phone numbers of the person to whom replies could be sent
- If it is an academic invitation, the title or the theme of the lecture or the symposium must be stated. Also to be stated is the name(s) of the guest speaker(s)

REGISTERS

According to quirk and Greenbaum (1977) see register as the variety of English according to the subject matter involved in a discussion. Little (1980) defines register as " the total characteristic of any sample language in relation to the particular purpose for which it is intended". Register therefore shows that a language has many varieties which human beings employ to communicate in relation to the situation or occasion in which one finds himself. Thus register is said to be language in situation"

Every human being who uses English language is expected to have an adequate knowledge of the language for every day interaction outside the specialized varieties. In otherwise, a speaker is not restricted to his professional language. Occasions demand that we use different register. However, we must be careful not to shift register unnecessarily in the course of use of register for a medical doctor to employ the register of medicine in his informal interaction (language) with an old classmate he met at the club. So, the study of register is to ensure that we allow the situation to determine our choice of lexical items so as to achieve effective and precise communication on professional matters.

FACTORS INFLUENCING REGISTERS

There are three factors influencing or shopen registers, They are :

- a. Field of discourse
- b. Mode of discourse
- c. Style of discourse

FIELD OF DISCOURSE: A speaker or writer uses language register in a particular situation or context. This situation of context is generally referred to as subject matter. More technically it is called the field of discourse. The writer here selects words to suit the particular subject matter or profession. To do that, the speaker or writer must have a rich reservoir of words relating to the subject matter. There are many subject matter or fields that generate different registers. They include: Medicine, Engineering, Agriculture, Law, Education, Journalism etc. so when we analyze a piece of communication, we pay attention to the language used to see which field or profession it reflects

MODE OF DISCOURSE: This refers to the medium either spoken or written, that is used in a text. In the spoken medium, we pay attention to the sound pattern, facial expressions, tone, stress, rhythm etc attitude of the speaker. In the written aspect, the audience is not physically present to notice these features. So, we try to use words and writing devices clearly and appropriately to convey all kinds of impressions. In analyzing the mode of discourse therefore, we pay attention to the tone of a speaker which could suggest anger, dislike, friendliness etc. (sound pattern); lexical items reveal the subject matter (vocabulary) and the sentence constructions, spellings, punctuation etc which could reveal the educational level of the writer (grammatical).

STYLE OF DISCOURSE: The degree of formality of language used in a text, whether formal, informal, casual etc is called the style of discourse. In other words, style is the kind of language use which is a result of the combination of subject matter, mode and tenor. Tenor here means the kind of language use that arises from the differences in status of the participants in a situation. For instance, a university professor who is explaining to a road side motor mechanic would not employ the published language that he uses in the university environment. In such a situation, he would rather choose a style or form of language that the mechanic will understand.

EXAMPLES OF REGISTERS ACCORDING TO SUBJECT MATTER

RELIGION: Finally my brethren, if thou desireth to inherit the kingdom of God, thou must deny thyself, take up thy cross daily and follow Jesus Christ

LEGALESE: Having carefully examined the evidences in this case. Before this honorable court, the accused is hereby convicted and charged.

OFFICIALESE: Your letter dated 25th May, 2017 on the above subject matter refers. I am directed to inform you that necessary action is being taken to ensure that all your entitlement are duly paid.

ACCOUNTING: Although the double entry system can ensure mathematical equation between debit and credit entries, it cannot always guarantee the following: Omissions, compensation error and entry on wrong account.

ECONOMICS: The best and ideal exchange rate is the optimum rate but it is difficult to have optimality in real life because real costs are difficult to compare considering the differences in resources availability.

QUESTION:

1. What do you understand by the term register?
2. How true is it to say that register is language in situation?
3. Explain the factors that influence register.

JARGON

This is the specialized or technical language of trade, profession class or fellowship. It could also mean utterances that are nonsensical, incoherent and meaningless to a person outside the profession, trade class.

REPORTING WRITIN

DEFINITION:

A report is an oral or written account or facts of what are observed, investigated, examined, and work done and conclusion arrived at.

A report can also be made of an event that had taken place or action that is planned for the future recommendation are often required in a report.

TYPES OF REPORT

- Formal(long) report
- Informal report
- Routine reports
- Analytical report
- Conference report
- Progress report
- Eye witness report
- Investigation report
- Management report
- Reports on people

FORMAL (LONG) REPORT

This is any report that includes certain prefatory (which act as a preface = piece writing by author) and supplemented parts, viz: content page, certification acknowledgement, reference, bibliography appendices and list of maps, graphs etc.

REGULAR REPORT

A regular report is written during and over a specific time and period eg sales of report, progress report, production report etc.

ROUTINE REPORT

A routine report does not have specific time or period equipment maintenance report and safety inspection report are example of routine report

ANALYTICAL REPORT

An analytical report is written when available statistics cannot readily provide a required conclusion, which should help in decision making.

Here, data in their raw states are taken and carefully analyzed to a point where meaningful conclusions are drawn and reasonable and valid decisions are taken. The analysis is important because without it the data will be inaccessible and therefore useless.

ANALYTICAL REPORTS ARE OF TWO TYPES:

1. Analytical Justification Report

In this case, the writer has to convince his reader (management) on the need to accept a new proposal by including facts and figures in his report. Logical and psychological reasoning must be used here.

2. Analytical Periodic Report with Figures

This type is often used by statisticians, accountants, and other categories of workers who deal with figures. Firstly, part of the report is usually difficult to read, therefore, the report has to be tabulated under two headings. The tabulation makes for readability and easy extraction of meaning information.

INFORMATION REPORT

It merely present and summarizes facts without analysis. It usually does not have conclusions and or recommendations. Informational reports vary depending on the types of business, purpose, topics discussed and reader's needs.

PROGRESS REPORTS

Progress reports present improvements, difficulties and projections on a particular area of interest. It's also shows accomplishments or activity for a certain period or stage of a major assignment.

EYE WITNES REPORT

This is necessitated by the need to give account of what has been witnessed, such as fighting and accident, expectedly, type of report.

INVESTIGATION REPORT

This is often called for under special circumstances.

- Laboratory report
- Recommendation report and
- Test and technical investigation report

MANAGEMENT REPORTS

These are reports made consistently on the various units of an organization. Reports on training, sales, control, etc are needed by management for sound decision taking.

REPORTS ON PEOPLE

These are confidential reports often written by referees to be used as testimonials for people who may need job, promotion etc.

PARTS OF A REPORT

Reports of all types follow a set order

TERMS OF REFERENCE: This is an outlines of the objectives of the report, the subjects of its considerations, and both the extent and limitations of the inquiry to be made.

PROCEDURE: This states the methods used for data collection, test carried out etc

FINDINGS: This is the report giving the facts and findings are discoveries or observations made. It reveals the truth of an investigation. This leads to drawing of valid conclusion.

CONCLUSION: This gathers up the threads of the arguments and judges them. The conclusion should be sound and thoroughly sustained by the by what has gone before.

RECOMMENDATION: (if required): It is the hallmark of a good investigator, recommendation should be sound, well-defined, concise, itemized, discrete, and fully considered.

SIGNATOR: The report should be dated and signed by the author

APPENDICES: Here, supporting materials that are too voluminous to include in the body are put away. The reader only turns to this supporting evidence if detailed information is needed.

QUALITIES OF A GOOD REPORT

CONCISENESS: The report should aim at using as few words as possible. This leads to precision in the language of the presentation and minimizes the presence of ambiguity as far as possible. The report must avoid of unnecessary information.

CLARITY: The writer should also aim for an orderly presentation of facts and ideas. This will lead to a clear understanding issues and equally aid in curbing ambiguities misconceptions.

COMPLETENESS: The report should contain all necessary information that will make the reader understand its message. Irrelevance should not be included.

CONCISENESS: It must be brief and straight to the point.

ACCURACY: Accurate or inaccurate observations and findings will affect the information that is presented in the report

CORRECTNESS: Correct communication and information dissemination will enhance the quality of the report. Incorrect information can come in through grammatical mistakes which can lead to wrong conclusion.

OTHERS: Tone (to be formal), Readability (interesting to read)

APPENDICES: Here, supporting materials that are too voluminous to include in the body are put away. The reader only turns to this supporting evidence if detailed information is needed.

QUALITIES OF A GOOD REPORT

CONCISENESS: The report should aim at using as few words as possible. This leads to precision in the language of the presentation and minimizes the presence of ambiguity as far as possible. The report must avoid of unnecessary information.

CLARITY: The writer should also aim for an orderly presentation of facts and ideas. This will lead to a clear understanding issues and equally aid in curbing ambiguities misconceptions.

COMPLETENESS: The report should contain all necessary information that will make the reader understand its message. Irrelevance should not be included.

CONCISENESS: It must be brief and straight to the point.

ACCURACY: Accurate or inaccurate observations and findings will affect the information that is presented in the report

CORRECTNESS: Correct communication and information dissemination will enhance the quality of the report. Incorrect information can come in through grammatical mistakes which can lead to wrong conclusion.

OTHERS: Tone (to be formal), Readability (interesting to read)

Summary Questions

THE FEDERAL POLYTECHNIC, MUBI SCHOOL OF PRELIMINARY AND GENERAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGES AND COMMUNICATION

2nd AND 4th SEMESTER EXAMINATION, 2016/2017 ACADEMIC SESSION

PROGRAMME: All ND II

COURSE TITLE: Communication in English II COURSE CODE: GNS 202
TIME ALLOWED: 3 hours

Instruction: Attempt four (4) questions in all.

Q1a. Define register.

- b. Explain the following factors that influence register:
 - i. Field of discourse ii. Mode of discourse iii. Tenor of discourse
 - c. Give the appropriate field of discourse of the following words:
 - i. Boarding pass ii. Prosecute iii. Stethoscope iv. Seedling v. Headline
 - vi. Curriculum vii. Circuit viii. Hammer ix. Cutlery x. Mouse

Q2a. What is a business letter?

Assignment for the students:

- b. An advertisement was made in the Vanguard Newspaper of 10th August, 2017 for the post of Executive Officer in the Great Ventures Limited Mubi. Write an application for the post.

Q3a. What is a memo?

- b. Explain the following types of business letter:
 - i. Invitation ii. Query iii. Complaint iv. Sales v. Condolence

Q4a. What is writing for publication?

- b. mention five (5) techniques of writing for publication.
- c. List and explain the three (3) elements of writing for publication.

Q5a. Define a report.

- b. Enumerate five (5) uses of a report.
- c. Write short notes on the following:
 - i. Routine report ii. Special report iii. Eye-witness report
 - iv. Technical report v. Feasibility report

Q6a. List any five (5) qualities of a good report.

- b. Name five (5) sources of a good report.
- c. Explain the following terms in long report:
 - i. Abstract ii. Bibliography iii. Appendix iv. Terms of reference